

Anne Popiel is studying towards a PhD in Germanic Languages and Literatures with a Certificate in Translation Studies at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. She will include Flusser in her dissertation and is currently interested in the intersections of art and science in maps, diagrams, digital technology and the environment.